INDUCTION PROGRAMME ACTIVITIES

❖ Universal Human Values

Social circle: The social circle, like media and Science/Technological environment, have the major influence on the engineering students behavior. The engineering student may be tilted towards aggression and misbehavior due to continuous working with machines/ computers and the effect of media. The Engineering student has a greater explosion of science and technology . Application of science and technology is a more human and rationale way to moral and ethical responsibility.

A major ubiquitous aspect of contemporary society is the intrusion of the social media. The youth, instead of learning how human beings are equal , grow up with prejudices injurious to society. Students should go through the process of learning universal human values in institutes for propagation of positive messages.

There is a great impact of three circles on the engineering student's life . The different aspects of family, school teacher, friends and society play a vital role in an engineers personal life as well as in society . The crucial change in behavior of a student is the outcome of education in human values .

The findings suggest that there is a deep need for education of universal human values in an engineer's life. With this education , the society will be gifted with good professional engineers along with good human beings. The engineering students , those who have attended human value course are more polite and accept realities, which reflects in their responses.
